

PARTNERING IN CHRONIC PAIN CARE

Evidence-based ketamine
therapy for complex cases

ABOUT VITALITAS

Chronic pain is one of the toughest challenges in medicine, for patients and providers alike.

At Vitalitas, we exist to ease that burden.

We are a physician-led clinic specializing exclusively in ketamine therapy. With more than a decade of frontline experience, our team of anesthesiologists delivers hospital-grade care in a compassionate outpatient setting.

Our mission is simple: to relieve suffering. We partner with pain providers across Colorado to expand treatment options for patients whose pain has resisted conventional pathways—always with safety, evidence, and collaboration at the core.

WHEN KETAMINE MAY BE APPROPRIATE

Ketamine infusion therapy is not a first-line treatment. But for certain patients, it can provide meaningful relief when other approaches have plateaued.

CONSIDER A REFERRAL WHEN:

- Neuropathic pain (CRPS, diabetic neuropathy, failed back surgery syndrome) persists despite standard interventions.
- Opioid therapy or interventional procedures offer only partial or temporary relief.
- Functional outcomes—mobility, work, daily activities—remain limited by pain.
- A patient may benefit from a short course of adjunctive therapy to reduce reliance on higher-risk medications.

Our role is not to replace your treatment plan, but to support it. Ketamine can open a therapeutic window, helping patients regain momentum in their broader care.

REFERRAL PROCESS

We've designed a streamlined process that respects your time and keeps you in the loop.

REFER

Schedule a referral consult via email, phone, or Calendly.

EVALUATE

Our physicians review the patient's history and confirm appropriateness.

TREAT

We deliver a focused infusion series at our clinic, monitoring safety at every step.

REPORT

You receive timely updates on outcomes and next steps.

Have a case in mind but not sure ketamine is right?

Schedule a 10-minute provider-to-provider call. We'll walk through the profile with you and offer our perspective.

CARE MODEL & INTEGRATION

For many patients, ketamine is not a cure, but it can be a catalyst.

The right treatment at the right time can reduce pain intensity, restore function, and help patients re-engage in their lives and therapies.

SAFETY YOU CAN TRUST.

Every infusion is physician-administered and monitored with hospital-grade equipment.

EVIDENCE THAT MATTERS.

Protocols are guided by published research and refined through clinical experience.

COLLABORATION THAT LASTS.

Patients remain under your primary care. We keep communication open and outcomes transparent.

CASE STUDY

“The folks here are calming, confident, and easygoing. They understand CRPS and chronic pain. Finding the right professional to administer ketamine is huge. Here, they count on me to do my work away from infusions, and I count on them to do the infusions so I can do my work. If we weren’t working together, this would just be another failed treatment.”

Dr. Eve Langston

Dr. Eve Langston, owner and provider at Vitalitas Denver, earned her medical degree from Loyola University Chicago and completed her anesthesia residency at Harvard's Brigham and Women's Hospital. Since 2018, she has focused solely on ketamine infusion therapy for mental health and chronic pain as the lead physician at our Littleton clinic. She is a member of ASKP and ASA and founded the FIRE Foundation of Denver.

Dr. Karthik Reddy

Dr. Karthik "Tiki" Reddy completed his anesthesiology training and a cardiothoracic anesthesia fellowship at the Cleveland Clinic. After years providing anesthesia for complex cardiac surgeries in Denver, he has focused exclusively on ketamine infusion therapy since 2020 as the lead physician at Vitalitas Denver – Westminster. Outside of work, he enjoys traveling with family, cooking, studying World War II history, collecting vinyl, and learning guitar.
